About Us

MyJobs Ltd is a company specialising in bringing you the best niche jobsites for specialist recruitment. Our customer service is second to none and unlike some other online advertising options. We are always on the end of the phone or email to assist you with any difficulties.

MyJobs Ltd is headed by experienced technical recruiters and engineers. We fully understand the recruitment industry. We understand the consultant's role, and the challenges faced on a daily basis.

Think of us as your recruitment partner. MyJobs will work with you no matter what your size to ensure you have success from your advertisements. We are not here just to sell you advertising space. After all, your success is also our success.

The simplicity of the sites is that they focus specifically on one sector. Candidates know when they visit the site that all vacancies on the site are from the industry they are skilled in. All the positions on the site expire after 30 days so jobseekers can be sure that all positions displayed are current.

Employers and Recruiters – With many years of experience using online jobsites we have tried to build the sites consultant friendly. Time is always an issue in our industry and with a simple copy and paste you can have your vacancies online within minutes. Once your vacancy is live, all applications come direct to your inbox with the candidate CV attached. You will also get information in the email body of the candidates Location, skills, salary expectations and a brief summary. You can log in to your account at any time and view your applications or edit your vacancies. Your logo will appear next to every position you post and you have your own company home page with your company description and jobs.

Jobseekers - Registration is a simple process and once a CV is uploaded applications can be made online. You can upload your covering letter and set your email alerts to send you the latest jobs. We send you an email to confirm your applications so you can keep track. You can also login and view all your applications online.
